

off the fence.

Ugliest House On The Block

6 x 60'

EPISODIC BREAKDOWN

1. The Rivas Family

Everyone knows that one house that brings down the rest of neighbourhood. Well, the Rivas family live in that house. With the help of our design team, the neighbourhood is coming together to make the Rivas house something worthy of this storybook road. But when the weather turns against us, we find out paint, electricity and water do not mix.

2. Donna's Dump

Everyone in the neighbourhood calls Nadine Mama Dukes because she's a hard-working single mother who will do anything for any of her neighbours. Everyone loves Mama Dukes, but they really hate her home. With the help of the entire neighbourhood our design team clears out, cleans up, tears up and confronts 30 years of neglect to transform Mama Dukes house.

3. The Bailey Family

Welcome to Emerald Hills, where it's hard to tell where the putting greens end and the manicured lawns begin. Well, that's true for every house, except one. Raising their two grandkids on their own, volunteering for multiple organizations and medical setbacks have kept the Bailey's from maintaining their house the way they'd like. So the neighbours have asked for our help.

4. The Izquierodos Family

Raising five kids is difficult, but when 4 of them are teenage quadruplets, finding the time or the resources to maintain the outside of the house become almost impossible. The neighbours all agree that this family deserves a home makeover, so they're all pitching in with the design team to turn this eyesore next door into something beautiful.

5. The McGuire Family

The McGuire home used to be one of the nicest houses on the street. But after thirty years and three kids, their home has become the ugliest house on the block. Shovels and hammers in hand, our designer quickly faces her biggest challenge to date when the homeowners decide they don't like the design plan.

6. Lisa's Inn

Lisa is a model booker whose house is usually full of the models she works with. The outside of the house doesn't quite match the beauty that's on the inside. Our design team enlists the help of Lisa's neighbours and try to get the models to help pull off a major home renovation in just a few days.